What We Believe but Cannot Prove: Today's Leading Thinkers ...

As humans, we tend to assume that we can see, feel and experience everything there is to be perceived in life. Since birth, we're conditioned to believe that we're a superior, infallible race of beings that can control everything – even if we suspect deep down that we can't. But I've always felt that there is much more to existence.

September 23, 2011by Aaron Armstrong. From Awaiting a Savior: We cannot separate what we believe from what we do. We may want to “ act [our] way into a new way of thinking, not think [our] way into a new way of acting; ” but Jesus has not given us that luxury. We may want to proclaim, “ deeds, not creeds; ” but Jesus has not given us that authority. We may want to separate Jesus ’ ethics from His identity; but Jesus has not given us that right.

We Cannot Separate What We Believe From What We Do

Who we are, is what we believe. As you were growing up, you may have been told over and over that you were good at doing something. You believed it. Similarly, if you constantly tell people they are doing a good job, they will eventually believe it even if, in the beginning, they have doubts about their ability.

Why do we believe some women and not others?

First, 23 and 24 are not two separate scriptures. 24 is a continuation of 23. Second, in 23, we first believe that what we ask for will come to pass, and in 24, we are to confess it until we have received it. We are to believe that we are receiving it when we pray, while the thing we desire "shall" come to pass in the future, in God ’ s timing.
